

Title:	International security, military relations and strategic thought
Lecture hours:	20
Study period: (summer/winter)	Summer/winter
Number of credits:	5
Assessment methods:	Activity during classes Oral exam
Language of instruction:	English
Prerequisites:	None
Course content:	Participants of the international military relations Classification of wars and armed conflicts Causes and consequences of wars Legal and political aspects of the use of force Concept of collective security United Nations in conflict resolution NATO in the global and regional security system The Common Foreign and Security Policy of the European Union Evolution of strategic thought Theories of warfare
Learning outcomes:	The aim of the course is to familiarize the participant with the basics of international security, international military relations and strategic thought. The course covers both theoretical and practical aspects. It explains the rules of using military power in the international environment, describes the actors of military relations and security policy, and analyzes the most influential concepts of warfare. Moreover, it presents the activities of the main international organizations that shape the international security system.

Name of lecturer:	Prof. Łukasz Jureńczyk
Email address:	lukaszjurenczyk@ukw.edu.pl