COURSE DESCRIPTION

Lecture hours: 20 h Study period: (summer/winter semester) Summer and/or winter semester (available in both semesters) Number of credits: 5 ECTS Assessment methods: Language of instruction: ENGLISH - Knowledge of English at intermediate level (B1) Prerequisites: none Course content: 1. Induction meeting (schedule, timetable, assessment criteria, prerequisites). 2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. 7. Political participation. 8. Political leadership. 9. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Learning outcomes: Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a
Study period: (summer/winter semester) Summer and/or winter semester (available in both semesters) Number of credits: Student project Language of instruction: ENGLISH - Knowledge of English at intermediate level (B1) Prerequisites: none Course content: 1. Induction meeting (schedule, timetable, assessment criteria, prerequisites). 2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. 7. Political leadership. 9. Political leadership. 9. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Learning outcomes: Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Title of the course:	Introduction to Political Psychology
Number of credits: 5 ECTS	Lecture hours:	20 h
Assessment methods: ENGLISH - Knowledge of English at intermediate level (B1) Prerequisites: none 1. Induction meeting (schedule, timetable, assessment criteria, prerequisites). 2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-political participation. 8. Political participation. 8. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Learning outcomes: Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Study period: (summer/winter semester)	Summer and/or winter semester (available in both semesters)
Language of instruction: ENGLISH - Knowledge of English at intermediate level (B1) Prerequisites: none 1. Induction meeting (schedule, timetable, assessment criteria, prerequisites). 2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. 7. Political participation. 8. Political leadership. 9. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Number of credits:	5 ECTS
Prerequisites: 1. Induction meeting (schedule, timetable, assessment criteria, prerequisites). 2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. 7. Political participation. 8. Political leadership. 9. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Learning outcomes: Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Assessment methods:	Student project
Course content: 1. Induction meeting (schedule, timetable, assessment criteria, prerequisites). 2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. 7. Political participation. 8. Political leadership. 9. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Learning outcomes: Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Language of instruction:	ENGLISH - Knowledge of English at intermediate level (B1)
2. The subject of political psychology. 3. Psychological aspects of current political debates. 4. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. 5. Political marketing and election campaign planning. 6. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. 7. Political participation. 8. Political leadership. 9. Political conflicts. 10. Student project presentation. Learning outcomes: Recognising the subject of political psychology, analysing current political phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Prerequisites:	none phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field of political psychology. Name of lecturer: Izabela Kapsa, PhD	Course content:	 The subject of political psychology. Psychological aspects of current political debates. Psychosocial determinants of electoral behavior. Political marketing and election campaign planning. E-politics and the influence of algorithms on political decisions. Political participation. Political leadership. Political conflicts. Student project presentation.
	Learning outcomes:	phenomena, using psychological and political knowledge in the analysis of the determinants of electoral behaviour, planning activities needed to implement a political campaign, recognising contemporary technological challenges in the field
Email address: izabela.kapsa@ukw.edu.pl	Name of lecturer:	Izabela Kapsa, PhD
	Email address:	izabela.kapsa@ukw.edu.pl